Christians in Iraq are persecuted by the Islamic militants of the jihadist group ISIS (Islamic State of Iraq and Syria). In Mosul, ISIS militants marked with a spray-painted ن (the Arabic letter for "N") all Christian property to be seized after an ultimatum for the Christians to be displaced. "N", or ن, is the first letter of the Arabic word for Christian, "Nasrani" or Nazarene.

Frustration over the world's inaction to help Christians in Iraq have led to a social media campaign to raise awareness about the fate of Mosul's Christians. Users, for the most part Christians and Catholics, are changing their profile pictures on Facebook and Twitter to a pictures of the letter ن, the very letter infamously branding their Iraqi co-religionists, and turning it into a symbol of support. On Twitter, hashtags such as #WeAreN, #IamNasrani and #ن serve to share news and pictures, send 140-character-long prayers, and announce time and place for support demonstrations in Western countries.

The Bishops of the United States have called for a Day of Prayer for Peace in Iraq for this weekend to show our solidarity with the Christian people and other minority religious groups in Iraq who are suffering persecution at the hands of the Islamic militants of ISIS.

Today's Readings

Safeguarding Children and Addressing Abuse

The Catholic Church Is Battling Sexual Abuse

While most media focus over the past ten or more years has been on the incidents of sexual abuse within the Church, little has been said about the many positive steps that the Catholic Church has taken to address the issue. Dioceses across the country, and especially the Archdiocese of Newark, have instituted compassionate outreach to victims and support services, training and background checks for staff and volunteers, training requirements to civil authorities, independent Review Boards to investigate allegations and recommend actions under Canon law for offenders, as well as other initiatives.

To date, the Catholic Church is the only youth-serving organization in the country—private or public

Pope Francis, Bishops Call for Prayers for Peace

This week the Bishops of the United States have called for a Day of Prayer for Peace in Iraq for this weekend to show our solidarity with the Christian people and other minority religious groups in Iraq who are suffering persecution at the hands of the Islamic militants of ISIS. Archbishop Myers has suggested the following prayer, written by the Chaldean Catholic Patriarch of Iraq, His Beatitude Louis Rafael Sako:

Lord,
The plight of our country is deep and the suffering of Christians is severe and frightening.
Therefore, we ask you Lord to spare our lives, and to grant us patience,
and courage to continue our witness of Christian values with trust and hope.
Lord, peace is the foundation of life;
Grant us the peace and stability that will enable us to live with each other without fear
and anxiety,
and with dignity and joy.
Glory be to you forever.

Meet The New Priests of the Archdiocese of Newark

Father Pedro Repollet

Born and raised in Puerto Rico, Fr. Repollet, 45, moved to New York when he was almost 17. Although baptized, he did not practice his Catholic faith even as he enjoyed ever-growing success in real estate sales.

However, a nagging feeling that something was missing in his life was confirmed about 12 years ago when he attended a healing Mass at his home parish, Saint Michael in Newark. "This is the parish in which I had a personal encounter with Jesus in the Eucharist," he said, and it ushered change into his life.

As part of a missionary group, Fr. Repollet first offered his story as a witness in talks and retreats locally and in others cities and outside the U.S. He resisted a feeling he was being called to the priesthood, reasoning he could live comfortably on occasional house sales while continuing the retreats and talks.

"But the Lord was stronger," he said. He decided on the seminary in 2008 after realizing how much the Eucharist had changed him and how he wanted to share that gift with others—as only a priest could. He served his diaconate at Our Lady of Lourdes in West Orange, much of it under Monsignor Joseph Petrillo, who died in December. "I am very fortunate to have the privilege to learn so much from this parish and the amazing priests who are part of this community. We will continue to introduce the 12 new priests of the Archdiocese throughout the summer.

How can you support seminarians?

A portion of the donations collected by the Annual Appeal is used to fund the seminary training and formation of our new priests. Your support of the Annual Appeal continues to directly support the three seminaries maintained by the Archdiocese to educate and train future priests.

New Jersey's Adoption Law has changed

What birth parents need to know...

New Jersey's adoption law has changed with regard to adoptees' access to full birth record information. In the future, the names of all birth parents who placed a child for adoption in New Jersey will be made available to adoptees upon request unless the birth parents file a form with the State indicating that they do not want contact with the child.

Birth parents who were assured anonymity previously are able to request continued privacy but to do so, they must complete and submit a form with the State no later than December 31, 2016.

As soon as more information is available and the State of New Jersey releases the necessary form(s) Catholic Dioceses statewide will post related information on their websites.

In the meantime, here is what all birth parents should know:

For adoptions finalized prior to August 1, 2015:

- Adoptees will be able to obtain an original birth certificate without involvement of the courts beginning January 1, 2017.
- Birth parents have until December 31, 2016 to file a request with the State of New Jersey indicating that they want no contact with the child they gave to adoption. If a birth parent files such a request, the State Registrar will redact the birth parent's name from any documents provided to adoptees. If they fail to file such a form – their identity will be revealed to the adoptee upon request.

- All birth parents who request redaction will be required to update medical history information every 10 years until the birth parent reaches the age of 40 and every five years thereafter.

For adoptions finalized after August 1, 2015:

- Long-form birth certificates will be available to adoptees without redaction of a birth parent's name.
- Birth parents, who give a child to adoption after August 1, 2015, will be able to file a form with the State indicating that they wish to have no contact with the adopted child or whether they are willing to have direct contact or contact through an intermediary. In all cases, in the future, birth parents will need to file with the State information about their medical history.

As noted above, information on how birth parents should request continued privacy is not yet available from the State. As soon as the State releases the information, all Catholic Dioceses in New Jersey will post that information on their websites.

Catholic Social Teaching: An Introduction

By Drew STUART, MA

When many people think of Catholic social teaching, images of feeding the hungry and clothing the naked come to mind. Caring for the poor is indeed a central aspect of Catholic social teaching. The Church even emphasizes the need for a preferential option for the poor, meaning that special concern should be shown for the poor, powerless, and marginalized members of society. However, Catholic social teaching is, in reality, more comprehensive than this. It addresses many social issues and concerns, including the environment, the life and dignity of human beings, human work, the role of families within society, and the relationships between individuals and between nations. Social teaching could be seen as the Church's moral teaching applied to society as whole. It therefore addresses a myriad of topics.

At the same time, Catholic social teaching emphasizes concern for the poor for a very different reason than many secular charities, social programs, and public assistance organizations. According to the Compendium of the Social Doctrine of the Church, "With her social teaching the Church seeks to proclaim the Gospel and make it present in the complex network of social relations. It is not simply a matter of reaching out to man in society—man as the recipient of the proclamation of the gospel—but of enriching and permeating society itself with the Gospel." The point of Catholic social teaching (and any action motivated by that teaching) is to build a society founded upon the message of the Gospel. This social teaching is therefore part of the Church's mission of evangelization and plays a foundational role in the establishment of the Kingdom of God here on Earth. The Gospel's message of God's love and our salvation should be made apparent when our actions are guided by the Church's social teaching. Catholic social teaching therefore distinguishes itself from secular social ideologies and programs by placing the Gospel at the heart of its principles and charitable action.

CATHOLIC SOCIAL TEACHINGS

While social doctrine has always held an important place in the Church's teaching, it became more prominent starting in the late 19th century with Rerum Novarum, Pope Leo XIII's encyclical on the condition of workers. Since the time of Leo, many popes, including John Paul II and Benedict XVI, have written encyclicals that explain and apply the Church's social doctrine to contemporary issues. Most recently, Pope Francis has drawn attention to the Church's social teaching by making social justice a focus of his papacy. He calls us to realize that the Church's social teaching is an integral part of evangelization and discipleship that cannot be neglected or ignored.

This introduction begins our series of 46 articles on Catholic Social Teachings which will run periodically over the next year.
